The Dodgers are hosting the NL wild-card game against the St. Louis Cardinals, who charged to the postseason by reeling off a team-record 17-game winning streak last month. L.A. won 16 more games than the Cardinals but set a record for most victories by a non-division winner.

Forty-year-old Adam Wainwright started for the Cardinals against 37-year-old Max Scherzer. It's just the second elimination game in postseason history with two starting pitchers aged 37-plus.

The winner gets to face the 107-win San Francisco Giants, who say Logan Webb will start Game 1 on Friday. Webb won the NL West clincher on Sunday.

Kevin Gausman gets the starting nod for the Giants in Game 2.

ALDS open Thursday

UNDATED (AP) — The two American League Division Series begin on Thursday.

The top teams in the AL East are squaring off in the Division Series. The Red Sox led the division by 4 ½ games on July 7, only to finish eight games behind the Rays. Tampa Bay won the season series, 11-8 despite losing their first four meetings with Boston.

Shane McClanahan starts Game 1 for the Rays on Thursday after going 10-6 during the regular season. He'll be opposed by Eduardo Rodriguez.

Chris Sale could start Game 2 against rookie Shane Baz.

Bosox manager Alex Cora said Wednesday that he's not sure J.D. Martinez will be available due to an ankle injury.
